'Sofia's Pearls' are not a collection of thoughts, but a selection of thoughts; personal, partial and subjective... centered around those vital aspects of understanding of being human in your relationship with yourself, with others and with your environment in your search for your inner wellbeing. Each group of events is preceded by a small reflection, followed by several blank pages, inviting the reader to become a writer based on his individual reflections, transforming each example into a unique and original piece, open and dynamic... A book in the service of excellence in which you can pursue both the students of writing and individuals that are immersed in the process of personal growth. Events; minute pearls of ideas worthy of being treasured in with our books and writings, or even in our memory... phrases that can express more with less.
