So, what is it that makes a successful real estate agent?

Most get into the business simply because they want to make good money, preferably six figures or more. While from an outside perspective it often appears that agents get paid way too much for doing just a little work, the reality is that the life of an agent is not all roses and sunshine, all that glitters is not gold. It usually takes a long time until the average agent starts making decent money but people love seeing the glamour without paying attention to all the sweat equity that was put in during long nights and behind closed doors. So why am I telling you all of this? Am I trying to stop you from becoming an agent? No. The life of an agent can be stressful and success might seem far away at times but not if you have a waterproof plan at hand. There is a few that become successful quicker and reach higher levels of success than the average agent. Those are the ones that know how to work "the system".
